

Badge Of The New Zealand Royal Air Force with the National Fern Leaf

Badge Of The Royal Australian Air Force with the National Fern Leaf

Badge Of The Royal Canadian Air Force with the National Fern Leaf

Badge Of The South African Air Force (Lug Mag) with Protea the National Flower

Cap Badge Of The Royal Air Force with the National Tudor Rose

The words THE BATTLE OF BRITAIN on a background of flames

Tottering building in Queen Victoria Street (showing N.F.S. Firemen at work)

Bow Church (through the window can be seen the Dome and Cross of St. Paul's)

City Temple, Holborn, in ruins

Spitfires, Hurricanes, Defiants, Stukkas and Dorniers in combat

Spitfires, Hurricanes, Defiants, Stukkas and Dorniers in combat

St. Clements Danes (showing remaining walls)

The Old Bailey

Walls of the Guildhall

A typical Country Cottage with Oak Tree adjacent

An English Mansion

Airmen bailing out

House of Commons showing damage (Figures will be seen in the damaged porchway)

Buckingham Palace (showing damage to the Royal Gates). The Royal Coat of Arms is displayed on the Portico

Tudor Rose

Thistle and Shamrock

Thistle and Shamrock

Figure of fighter Pilot standing by his aircraft

A/A Gun and searchlights in action

St. Paul's Cathedral Surrounded by flames. (The sculpture over the portico can be identified and the time by St. Paul's clock is 19:25 hours)

'Never Was So Much Owed To So Many By So Few' - Churchill

RAF Badge

Acorns Daffodil Shamrock Thistle Tudor Rose Thistle Shamrock Daffodil Acorns

The edging of this curtain is comprised of ripening ears of corn representing the season during which the Battle of Britain took place. Interwoven with these ears off corn are Tudor Roses, Thistles, Shamock and Oak Leaves.

'Lug-Mag' is Afrikaans for 'Air Force'